

RINA - THE AUKUS AGREEMENT

The Royal Institution of Naval Architects speaker Martin Renilson will discuss AUKUS, and the way ahead for Australia.

Martin Renilson moved to Tasmania in 1983 to work at the Australian Maritime College, where he established the Ship Hydrodynamics Centre in 1985, and the Department of Naval Architecture and Ocean Engineering in 1996, with the first naval architecture and then ocean engineering degrees at AMC.

In 2001 he moved to the UK to work at QinetiQ as Technical Manager, Maritime Platforms and Equipment. In this role he was responsible for all hydrodynamic research for the UK MoD, including all its submarine hydrodynamics. In 2007 he returned to Australia and has remained interested in submarine hydrodynamics. He is an Adjunct Professor at AMC/UTas.

The second edition of his book on submarine hydrodynamics was published by Springer in 2018.
